(Broadcast email system temporarily down)

Good morning,

I hope this note finds your family safe after last night's storms.

We are aware of many electricity and internet outages across the city. Since it appears that students and teachers may have limited online access today, posted activities and work are not expected to be completed. If you are able to participate in remote learning, great but please afford yourself and others grace if participation is not possible today.

As always, the safety of our families and teachers is our main priority. Stay safe, and don't hesitate to reach out with questions.

Mrs. Jensen
